DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restriction

1. Applicants' election with traverse of Group II, claim 10, in Paper No. 12 is acknowledged. Applicants' position is that the inventions are closely related that they cannot properly be considered independent and distinct and that the claims can be searched without serious burden on the Examiner. This is not found persuasive. A search of all the inventions in the patent literature and the non-patent literature cannot be made without serious burden because the inventions require separate searches that have different limits, boundaries, scope, and subject matter. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons of record and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their divergent subject matter and classification, restriction for examination purposes is proper.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

2. Claim 10 is under consideration in this Office Action.

Claim Rejections - 35 U.S.C. § 101

3. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

4. Claim 10 is rejected under 35 USC 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

Claims 10, as written, do not sufficiently distinguish over nucleic acids, proteins, cells or antibodies as they exist naturally because the claims do not particularly point out any non-naturally occurring differences between the claimed products and the naturally occurring products. In the absence of the hand of man, the naturally occurring products are considered non-statutory subject matter. See Diamond v. Chakrabarty, 447 U.S. 303, 206 USPQ 193 (1980). The claims should be amended to indicate the hand of the inventor, e.g., by reciting the phrase "a transformed/recombinant Coryneform bacterium comprising a heterologous sig gene consisting of the nucleotide sequence of SEQ ID NO: 1. See MPEP 2105.

Claim Rejections - 35 U.S.C. § 112, 1st Paragraph

5. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

6. Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

The claimed invention encompass any Coryneform bacterium containing any sigH gene of any nucleotide sequence which is enhanced in activity/function by any modification. The specification, however, only provides the following representative species encompassed by the invention: a recombinant Coryneform bacterium strain DSM5715 transformed with a polynucleotide consisting of the nucleotide sequence of SEQ ID NO: 1. There is no written description of any other genetic modification to any other Coryneform bacterium which results in an enhanced activity of the sigH gene. Given this lack of additional representative species as encompassed by the claims, Applicants have failed to sufficiently describe the claimed invention, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms that a skilled artisan would recognize Applicants were in possession of the claimed invention.

Claim Rejections - 35 U.S.C. § 112, 2nd Paragraph

7. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

8. Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 10 is vague and indefinite because the meaning of the phrase "sigH gene is enhanced" is not known, the specific nucleotide sequence of the "sigH gene" is not recited in the claim, and it is not known and not recited in the claim as to how the sigH gene is "enhanced" other than overexpressing the sigH gene in a transformed Coryneform bacteria.
